Harlan J. Berk, Ltd. has presented an innovation in antiquities and numismatics for some time now. The system is simple. When you want an antiquity or coin in the sale, just bid the estimated price by phone or mail. We will send you the antiquity or coin immediately. No waiting for the closing of the sale. Any and all antiquities or coins not sold before the closing date will be sent to the highest bidder on August 29, 1990.

EXAMPLE—You bid estimate on an item valued at $100.00 and if your bid is the 1st to reach us, you will receive the item immediately. If on the other hand, you bid $75.00 on the same item and are still the high bidder at the end of the sale, the item will be mailed to you on the closing date, August 29, 1990.

If you are ever in the area, stop in and see us! Of course, it's best to call first.

ROMAN GLASS, 1st-3rd Century AD

Glass is a material of contrasts: red-hot, viscous and malleable during manufacture; fragile, brittle but durable when completed. The glassmaking mixture of sand, soda and lime used in antiquity has been called "the first synthetic". Yet glass is still handmade with essentially the same ingredients and techniques used over 2000 years ago.

- All glass absolutely intact and flawless unless otherwise stated -

CONSTANTINE XI; A SAD CONTRADICTIONARY HISTORY

The position of the Byzantine state during the reign of Constantine XI was so dire and the facts so contradictory to what anyone would expect, that it makes this story one of the most unusual in history.

Constantine Palaeologus was born the 9th of February 1404, the eighth of ten children to Emperor Manuel II and Irene. Irene was, through her father, a member of the Serbian Royal family who claimed French blood through Helene de Courtenay, Queen of Serbia 1262-1308 AD, who was of the French royal family.

On the death of his brother John VIII, the third of October 1448, Constantine's next younger brother Demetrius claimed the throne on the basis that he was born "in the purple" or while his father was Emperor. It looked like civil war would erupt. It was decided to put the question of who would be the next Emperor of Constantinople to none other than Murad II, the Sultan of the Turks. Being a thoroughly correct and honest man, Murad, though it was against his best interest, declared Constantine Emperor. This is like the Russian leader appointing the American leader. Constantine at the time was despot of the Peloponnesus, and on the 6th of January 1449 he was crowned in Misithra. He did not enter Constantinople until the 12th of March 1449.

On the 5th of February 1451 Sultan Murad II died leaving his 21 year old son Mohammed the Sultan. While only 21 the new Sultan was highly educated and spoke Arabic, Greek, Latin and Slavonic. Mohammed II was not pure Turkish, for his mother had been a beautiful Albanian slave; nor was he raised by an entirely Turkish heritage as his stepmother, the Sultana, was Mara Brankovich of Serbia. On the death of his father, Mohammed gave this stepmother rich estates in Macedonia and permission to return to her father, the influential George Brankovich, ruler of Serbia. He also granted the Byzantines of Constantinople 300,000 aspers a year to keep Orchan Effendi, an Ottoman Prince who had sought refuge in Constantinople, housed and living up to his station.

To show how inter-related everyone was, Constantine XI, twice a widower, was looking for a wife. Protostratorissa Palaeologina, a relative of the Emperor, suggested that Constantine might marry her niece Mara, the former Sultana of the Turks and stepmother to the Sultan. He did propose but he was declined.

The strange event that started the siege of Constantinople was a request to the Turks from the Byzantines for more money. It seems there was not enough money in the treasury to pay the salaries of state officials or the few companies of the Emperors guard. Foolishly, fatefully, they decided to raise more money by requesting more to house the Ottoman Prince Orchan Effendi. When they approached the Grand-Vizier Chalil-pasha of the Turks, himself a Greek and Serbian, by the way, he flew into a rage. The Sultan, on hearing this request, then and there resolved to honor his father Murad II's deathbed request to take Constantinople.

At this point Constantine sent emissaries to the west for help. Pope Nicholas tried to help but France and England were at war. The French King Charles agreed to end the war to help Constantinople but King Henry of England would not. While things looked hopeful for a time it came to nothing. As a last resort the emissaries asked the Pope to at least send the 10 ships and men he promised. The Pope replied that he could not do this until the union of the two churches was accomplished. The Byzantine agreed and on the 12th of December 1452 the "Te Deum" (Joint Mass) was celebrated in St. Sophia. This meant that the ships should come but the people were enraged. They hated the westerners, "the Latins", from the time of the Crusades and proclaimed "Better we should be Turks than Latin." One nun known for her piety donned a turban and began offering sacrifices to Mohammed. By the way, the ships from the Pope didn't arrive in the area until two days after the fall of the city and the death of Constantine.

Everything was against Constantine XI. The Hungarian maker of big guns, Orbon, went over to the Turks at 4 times the money the Byzantines were paying him. There were 7000 Christians defending the city and 30,000 Christians fighting with the Turks. Even 1500 soldiers of George Brankovich of Serbia, friend to Constantine XI, sent to Constantinople weren't told until the last minute they were fighting for the Turks. The soldiers and workmen in the city would not perform their duties until they were paid. Silver from the churches had to be made into coins and paid out before these patriots would fight and work.

It was said and circulated to the panic-stricken residents of the city that "the residence of the Emperors would not pass to other masters until ships were seen sailing under full canvas across the dry land." Even this happened on the night of May 21, 1453. The Sultan had moved 30 ships across 5 miles of land from the Bosphorous into the bay of the Golden Horn. He did this by clearing a connecting valley of brush, digging a canal, paving it with logs, then covering them with tar, lard and tallow. The ships were then drawn through the canal at night with sails unfurled by teams of buffalo assisted by soldiers.

Though Mohammed II offered Constantine XI peace and territory in Greece to rule; and his inner council asked him to flee, Constantine felt he must stay and die with the Empire. On May 29, 1453 the body of the Emperor was recognized by his purple shoes with double headed eagle embroidered on them. The Emperors head was exposed for some time in front of the Imperial Palace so all would know he, the last Greek Emperor of Byzantine, was dead. Mohammed II allowed the body of the Emperor to be buried with all honors and he paid for a flame to burn at that spot eternally.

"There are not coins known for Constantine XI though collectors have searched diligently for them". This is what P.D. Whitting wrote in this book, Byzantine Coins, published by Putman in 1973 and he was right.

"The issue of coin in John VIII's name may have continued into the reign of Constantine XI, though since a half stavrata of the latter have recently come to light there may be full stavrata also" commented Philip Grierson in this 1982 volume Byzantine Coins.

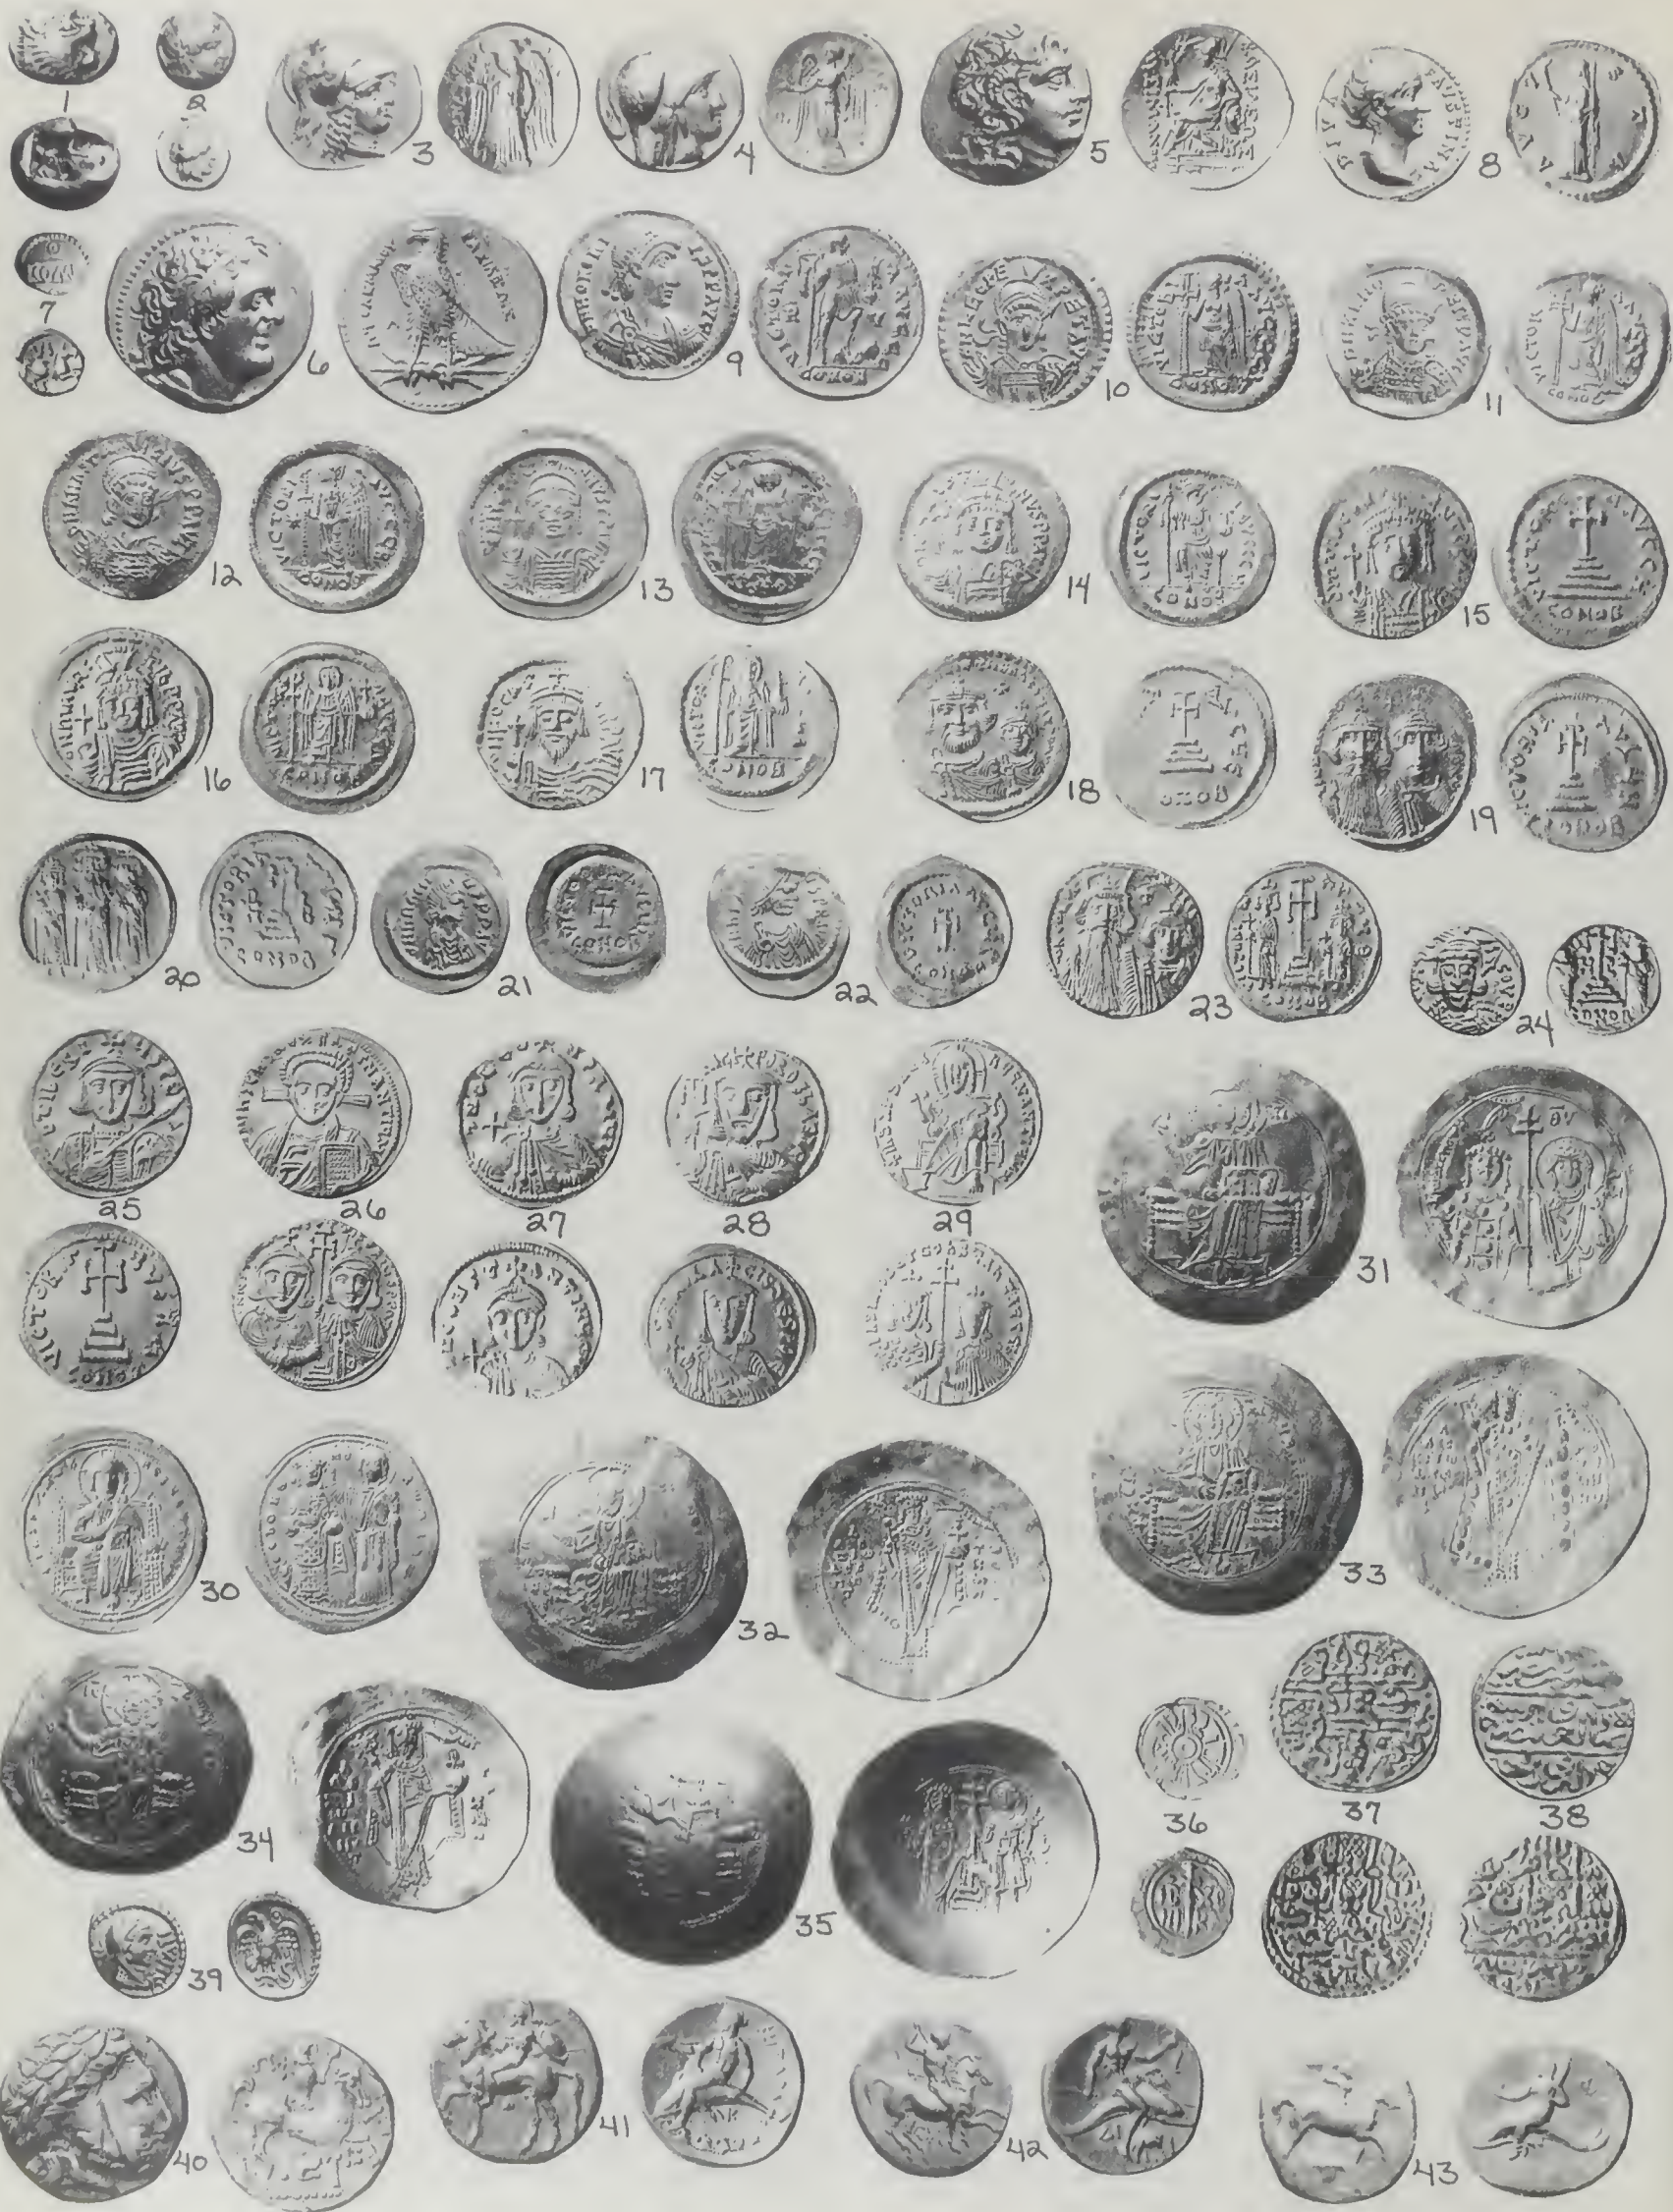

In the interim Simon Bendall had discovered the first coin of Constantine XI and later he spotted one which had been sold as John VIII in a list five years earlier by a now defunct company.

At this time a group of 83 coins of Constantine XI have come to light which include stavraton, half-stavraton and eighth stavraton.

As coins of John VIII tend to have wear and these coins are fresh it would appear that they were struck during the siege. Another indication of this is the fact that the die work on many is inferior even by standards of the period. These few coins must be the most historically significant of the Byzantine series.
